Simon Busuttil meets Maltese nationals in Luxembourg

MEP Simon Busuttil this week visited Maltese nationals working at the European institutions in Luxembourg. This is the second such visit in a year.

There are over 100 Maltese nationals working in the EU institutions in Luxembourg, mostly in the translation units of the European Parliament, the European Commission and the European Court of Justice. Many are based in Luxembourg with their family.

"My presence here is intended to show you that, as an MEP, I represent you too"
Busuttil told a sizeable crowd of guests who turned up for a reception that he hosted at the premises of the European Parliament in Luxembourg.

He told guests that he felt proud to see an increasing number of Maltese citizens being recruited in EU institutions and moving their way upwards in their careers. Likewise, Maltese EU officials should feel proud to fly the Maltese flag through their work and their performance within the institutions.
